RED CROSS CHAPTER PLANS BENEFIT SHOW

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

We can imagine nothing more inane than to hold the world's record for tree sitting.

* * * *

Fame is short and fleeting for the holders of endurance flight records, too.

* * * *

Several weeks ago the Hunter brothers, of Chicago, sunk every cent they had in an attempt to break the world's record.

* * * *

They declared that to win the record would mean to them more than $200,000.

* * * *

But today the Hunter brothers are ex-champions.

* * * *

O'Brien and Jackson, the two St. Louis fliers who originally established the record that the Hunter brothers broke, are again champions.

* * * *

Yesterday morning the two bird men passed the Hunter brothers' record, with the announced purpose of staying in the air more than 1000 hours.

* * * *

What these fliers should do is stay up a year—and then they may have a year of grace before their record is shattered by some other fliers.

* * * *

Some people's ideas of news is worse than nothing at all

* * * *

Many times persons have told reporters about some meeting or other, giving the details of how many were present, and how the refreshments were served.

* * * *

And then they casually let drop a fact that makes a whale of a good story.

* * * *

And then there are others when asked about a meeting reply, "only routine business."

* * * *

And someone else who attended the meeting will give details that make a good story.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS SCRIBE

Modern newspaper methods were described by J. E. Doyle, radio editor of an Oakland paper, yesterday at a luncheon of the Richmond Kiwanis club at the Hotel Carquinez.

Doyle repudiated the supposition that newspapermen are inaccurate. He stated that, although speed is always essential, good newspapermen always try to present the true facts.

A vocal solo was presented by Al Good during the program. He was accompanied on the piano by Emil Esola.

A. E. Squier presided at yesterday's meeting.

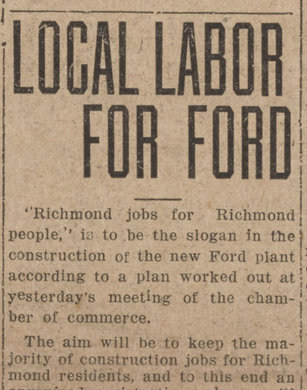
R-100 On Homeward Trip



British Zep Starts Hop To England

ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, Que., Aug. 13—UP—The R-100, Britian's big airship, rose from St. Hubert airport at 8:30 p. m., E. S. T., tonight and disappeared down the St. Lawrence valley toward the north Atlantic and England.

The great dirigible was hitting on but five of its six engines, but Squadron Leader Booth, in command, said he did not desire to postpone the departure.

As the great ship, grey in the reflected light of countless motor cars, moved into the dark sky, the crew and passengers peering down waved at the immense crowd.

A huge sign on the field, flooded with light bade them farewell.

It read: "Bon Voyage, R-100. Canada."

The starboard forward motor was silent as the great dirigible, the largest afloat, moved away from the tall mooring mast at St. Hubert field on its homeward flight.

It was damaged while the R-100 was landing on Monday after a short flight.

The loss of the engine's effectiveness was not regarded as a handicap. It was asserted the other five would provide sufficient power for the voyage.

The R-100 moved away from the mooring mast half an hour earlier than the time previously announced for the start. The huge crowd at the field yelled itself hoarse.

LOCAL LABOR FOR FORD

"Richmond jobs for Richmond people," is to be the slogan in the construction of the new Ford plant according to a plan worked out at yesterday's meeting of the chamber of commerce.

The aim will be to keep the majority of construction jobs for Richmond residents, and to this end an organized registration scheme will be worked out, centering at the Builders' Exchange.

Fred D. Parr, chairman of the publicity committee, reported that preliminaries toward this objective had been discussed with officials of the Clinton Construction company and that these men are willing to cooperate to the limit of their ability.

P. M. Sanford, president of the State Builders' Exchange, and active in the local organization, offered the services of this group with the cooperation of the chamber, in order that men may be satisfactorily identified as Richmond residents before being given jobs on the Ford plant construction.

Sanford said the Exchange will work out a registration scheme with the construction company and that when a man bears a card from the Exchange it will be certain that he lives in the city.

Wide publicity will be given to the matter by the Richmond chamber of commerce to limit as much as possible the influx of outside workers, many of whom will be unable to secure jobs when the plant is under way.

Directors of the chamber expressed intense interest in the proposal inasmuch as the Clinton company will soon be employing several hundred men who will be kept busy the greater part of a year in building the $3,500,000 assembling plant. While preliminary work is only just started at present, large scale operations are anticipated in the immediate future, according to reports from the contractors.

Witch Woman Sought In L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—A city wide search for the "witch-woman" accused of scratching half a dozen children in recent months, was redoubled today after she had attacked 10-year-old Virginia Lee Huffman of Pittsburgh, Kan., in a railroad station here.

The girl and her mother, Mrs. J. N. Huffman, had just arrived in Los Angeles and Virginia was left in a waiting room while Mrs. Huffman telephoned. The "witch-woman" approached her and immediately began to slap and beat her about the head.

When a man protested the brutality the woman turned on him pulling his hair and struck at him and then fled from the station. Witnesses said she boarded a streetcar.

1026 ENROLLED AT HIGH SCHOOL

An enrollment of 1026 pupils at Richmond Union High school was announced by Bert X. Tucker, principal of the high school, yesterday morning at an assembly of the high school pupils.

Tucker advocated that practically the entire enrollment should be included in the membership of the high school students' association.

The principal urged the necessity for study on the part of all pupils on the commencement of the school term. He stated that students intending to go to college should strive for the highest grades possible in order to go to the University of California or other institutions of the same standing. Tucker said that it is best for one to earn grades recommending to the higher institution than to just secure marks that will recommend to junior colleges.

Following the talk by Principal Tucker, Henry Transue, president of the high school student body, spoke on the sale of student body membership cards.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—Mary D'Arcy, 25, Hollywood screen actress, began the second day of her 10-day jail term today with the announced intention of taking a diet.

Fair and mild today; fog in the morning; moderate west winds.

NEW TARIFF FOR CITY

This city is to be included in the new tariff published for shipments between Richmond and Los Angeles, it was announced yesterday by W. W. Scott, chairman of the traffic committee of the chamber of commerce.

Scott said this is a distinct victory for Richmond and marks another step in the battle of his committee to place Richmond in a rate position comparable to any other Pacific coast city.

The tariff is published by the Los Angeles Navigation company in connection with the Bay Cities Transportation company, Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad, Pacific Electric railway, Richmond Navigation and Improvement company, and the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads.

Concurrence of the Richmond Navigation and Improvement company means that barging service will be supplied for small cargo lots under conditions that will put Richmond on a parity with other bay cities.

"We have always felt that Richmond was an industrial center of sufficient importance to entitle it to equal treatment to other east-bay shipping points," said A. E. Gillepsie, president of the Los Angeles and San Francisco Navigation company in his letter to Scott. "We are now in position to act along this line and in line with what we consider necessary for the development of the bay district. It gives me pleasure to advise you that we are publishing rates in our tariff between bay points and Los Angeles that apply to Richmond effective September 1. We believe the action will meet the approval of your chamber of commerce and the manufacturers of your city."

Another victory was recorded in the resolution of the Pacific coast committee of the United States Intercoastal Conference to apply terminal rates to Richmond for vessels calling direct for 250 tons or more. Scott said this is a distinct concession and should do much to stimulate intercoastal shipping direct from Richmond.

In company with her husband, Albert M. Templeton, section foreman for the Santa Fe railroad in Pinole, Mrs. Templeton was returning to her home from a prayer meeting at the Methodist church in Pinole.

According to reports, the couple did not notice the trailer of the truck and Mrs. Templeton stepped into the rear of it.

Skull Fractured

The truck was the property of Harvey E. West of Santa Cruz, and was driven by W. A. Matling who resides at the Bay Point hotel, Bay Point. Matling makes trips between Bay Point and Santa Cruz, delivering lumber.

The truck was empty at the time of the tragedy, which occurred about 8:45 p. m.

Mrs. Templeton was of German descent, and was a native of Russia. She has resided in California 23 years, the past 21 in Pinole.

These "Endorsements"

The "endorsement" stage has been reached in the county campaign.

A condition has arrived where each others backs have to be scratched.

In some instances these "endorsements" are made "voluntarily" and in others they are given "involuntarily."

Every effort is now being made to get "endorsements" for Sheriff Veale, who has occupied the office 36 years.

Frank M. Wilson, a deputy, and whose salary is being paid by the taxpayers of the county is now busy circulating a "voluntary endorsement" petition among the attorneys of the county. You will probably read that in a few days.

Even the prisoners in the county jail at Martinez, have come out with an "endorsement" for the sheriff. Just think of it—it is enough to make one laugh.

The prisoners state the "endorsement" is a "voluntary" one. Possibly so. In this so called endorsement they tell of the good clothes they are provided with by the sheriff, of the food "as good and plentiful as the average working man gets on the outside," of the tobacco, matches, etc. Think of it, the prisoners also say they have to take baths.

But the unfortunates fail to tell the dear public that none of these luxuries are being paid for by the sheriff, but by the taxpayers of the county, many of whom have to borrow money to pay their taxes and prevent them from going delinquent.

If you would believe this "voluntary" statement of the 55 prisoners in the county bastile, it is a real pleasure to be in the county jail.

Possibly the next "endorsement" you will be given the pleasure of reading will be from the inmates of San Quentin.

Apparently conditions are becoming such that candidates are getting frantic.

PROCEEDS TO BE USED TO AID VETS

Plans for a variety show, to be held Aug. 29 in the Roosevelt school auditorium were made at a session of the Richmond Red Cross board of directors last night.

The show will be known as 'American Red Cross Variety Show' and is being given for the benefit of local welfare funds.

An important part of the Red Cross work in peace time consists in aiding ex-service men and their families, covering a large field not reached by any other agencies.

Work Increases

The work this year among local veterans and their families has reached the highest point in the history of the local chapter, it was stated last night.

At the present time, it is said, there are some 40 cases on the list that the chapter is working on, an increase of some six cases over the number on the records a month ago.

Unless the board is able to raise more money, much of this work will have to be abandoned, it was reported.

To Aid Vets

As a result, the show is being planned. The money derived will be used for the aid of veterans.

An excellent program of professional entertainment is being chosen from the bay district.

George Rader has been named general chairman of the show committee, and he will be assisted by Mrs. W. W. Chapin, chairman of the program committee. Other committees will be named later.

Plans Made

Mrs. Chapin is working on a program which will consist of three short sketches, one of which will be given by the Berkeley Players association, which was selected by eastern critics as the best of some 22 acts presented for their consideration.

In addition there will be variety acts, one of which will be sponsored by the local Sciots.

Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls will act as ushers.

An employment bureau for veterans only has been established in San Francisco at 814 Mission street room 500, for the use without charge for all veterans, whether disabled or able bodied, it was announced last night.

HIGH GRIDDERS HOLD FIRST PRACTICE

One of the heaviest gridiron squads in the history of Richmond Union High school football started practicing for the first time yesterday afternoon in preparation for the season of 1930.

A squad of approximately 50 aspiring football athletes perspired and groaned on the local high school field yesterday under the coaching of Phil Hempler and Frank Ribbel, athletic coaches at Richmond high.

A strong nucleus of experienced veterans will form a sturdy backbone for this season's varsity. Plenty of "big boys" are out for this year's aggregation.

Many pounds of flesh that should be useful this season is to be found in the line. The heaviest of the heavy is Benny Hoeffer, tackle, who did plenty of damage to the opponents of the Red and Blue last fall. Then there is Ed Westman, a 180 pound tackle, who should come in handy as a tackle. Other huskies who may be expected to see plenty of action in the line this year are: Al Brignone, center; Ray Juillerat, end; Carl Drexel, end; Emerie Baxter, guard; and Louis Ball, guard.

A speedy backfield will be one of Richmond's main assets this autumn. John Rosano, who served ireditably for the loials last year in the fullback position, is ready to take part in the coming competition.

Leslie Scarsella and Ed Masek made a great sensation last year in the half way stations, and they are expected to put in an even better game this season. Hempler and Ribbel have a clever group of quarter-backs in Bob Miller, Woodrow Snodgrass, and Jack Stoddard.

Besides these veterans, there is an up-and-coming squad of neophytes who may be relied upon to furnish Hempler and Ribbel with a reliable reserve squad.

Richmond Union High school should be able to compete on equal terms with the older members of the Alameda County Athletic league on its entrance into league football competition.

REFINERY NINE BEATEN IN S. O.

The Refinery team went down under the hitting of the Al'-Standards yesterday afternoon to a 3 to 1 defeat in the second to last game of the 1930 Standard Oil baseball season.

Both teams blossomed out into a slugging spree in the third inning to make the only scoring of the entire game.

The All-Standards started out in the third period in threatening fashion. Didier hit into a single. Thorson also singled. Billy Wickesser then sacrificed out, advancing the runners one base each. Bunny Muth then walked, loading the bases. Cullers whiffed.

Then 'Old Reliable' Murphy came through with one of those convenient doubles that he slams out every so often, and three runs were scored for the All-Standards.

The Refinery scored its lone point also in the third period. Peacock tapped out a neat two base hit. Tony Lamarra then singled, scoring Peacock.

The Standard Oil league of 1930 will end this afternoon when the Barrel House and Mechanics go into action at five o'clock at First street. The game will not decide any league leadership or title, as the Barrel House already possesses a large lead on the Refinery and All-Standards.

Mrs. Moody, who has won the title six out of the last seven years, has decided to remain in California with her husband instead of defending her crown. Mrs. Mallory, who won the title in 1920, 21-22 and again in 1926 when the then Helen Wills was kept out of competitive play by an appendicitis operation, has retired from the courts.

He'en Jacobs, who is ranked next to Mrs. Moody and who was runner-up for the title in 1928, will not compete this year because of her health.

Robbery Story Of Man Scouted

MARTINEZ, Aug. 13.—A weird and fantastic tale of being accosted, bound and robbed of $78 by two bandits, told the sheriff's officers here by G. Hoffenberg, collector of an Oakland loan firm, last night, is today being probed by county authorities.

Hoffenberg was found gagged and bound to a tree beside the Martinez-Pacheco highway in a grove of eucalyptus trees at the junction of the road from Pacheco to Muir station by B. Root of Martinez.

Suspicions that Hoffenberg's story might have been somewhat colored, were heightened when the man failed to keep an appointment with authorities this noon to give a detailed account of the alleged holdup, police say.

Hoffenberg told sheriff's deputies that as he was driving from Martinez to Concord, two men jumped onto the running board of his car, and while one held a gun in his ribs, the other bound his feet and hands.

Carrying him to the eucalyptus grove, Hoffenberg said they bound him to a tree, where he was later found.

Another man was captured and a search started for a partner of the alleged secret ring leader.

Under orders of Harry D. Smith, Pacific coast supervising field agent, a force of five agents including two from outside San Francisco, acted on a tip and awaited the trunk here.

The trunk arrived at 7 o'clock in the morning. According to agents, Prazza drove up in his truck to get it. Gruimando was seen climbing into a truck at Vallejo street and Columbus avenue. The agents, following in two automobiles closed in and arrested Gruimando and Prazzo on Harrison act charges.

HAWKS BREAKS LINDBERGH RECORD

CURTISS FIELD, New York, Aug. 13-UP-Captain Frank Hawks regained his title as the cross continent speed champion of America today when he piloted his Travelair monoplane Texaco, from Los Angeles to Curtiss Field in 12 hours, 25 minutes, 30 seconds.

Hawks started from the municipal airport, Los Angeles, at 5:16:27 A. M. EST, and raced across country 2800 miles with stops for fuel at Albuquerque, N. M., Wichita, Kans., and Indianapolis, Ind., to land at Curtiss Field at 5:41:30 p. m. EST.

Thus Hawks broke by two hours, 20 minutes, 02 seconds the eastward flight record set on April 20 by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who had made it over the same route in 14:45:32 .

Only a week ago, on August 6, Hawks regained the westward record, which Roscoe Turner had taken from him, by making the flight from New York to Los Angeles in 14:50:43.

He was ahead of the Lindberghs all the way. He landed at Albuquerque at 8:43 a. m. EST, and took off 11 minutes later at 9 a. m. He landed at Wichita at 11:28 and at 11:35, only seven minutes later this time, he left for Indianapolis. Arriving at Indianapolis at 2:23, p. m. he refueled in 13 minutes and left at 2:36 for Curtiss Field.

Hawks' red and white monoplane was seen racing across Long Island at 10,000 feet. He had told those at the field at Indianapolis that he had been flying at 15,000 feet part of the time.

It was several minutes before the plane was identified even as a Travelair. It dropped to 5000 feet as it approached the field, then came down rapidly, circling twice.

Contender reported becalmed and in need of fuel on a return voyage from Honolulu. According to Coast Guard headquarters here the Algonquin was about the exact position of the Contender when she started to the rescue. It was feared that the cutter might have trouble in locating the stranded vessel.

PRISON LIFE SHOWN IN FILM

Someone at the Metro Goldwyn Mayer studio decided that a good prison riot should makqe t he foundation for an exciting talking film, and so Frances Marion was given the job of writing a story, the research department was ordered to study up on what make prisons tick, and the art department switched from castle and country house construction to prison building.

Decision was made to call the picture "The Big House," George Hill, whose last pictorial task was "The Flying Fleet" was made director, and a cast was chosen which includes Wallace Beery Karl Dane. Robert Montgomery Chester Morris. Lewis Stone, Leila Hyams, De Witt Jennings, Eddie Lambert, Eddie Foyer, George Marion. Fletcher Norton and Mikhail Vavitch.

Besides these listed participants in the tale of life inside prison walls, which will be shown today and tomorrow at the Fox-California theater, several men who had made a study of penitentiary conditions from the inmates' point of view, were hired as technical advisers. These former convicts instructed the actors and extras not only in the finer points of prison etiquette, but also in the intricacies of prison language.

While the studio prison is expected to look like the real thing from where the audience sits, and listens, it will have one or two improvements over its model. For instance, the floors will look like iron, but they'll be rubber. Otherwise, the noise of five or six hundred actor-convicts tramping over them might give the impression that it was a boiler factory, and not a prison.

Also on the program is Harry Langdon in "The Shrimp."

Fight Referee May Be Chosen By Commission

LOS ANGELES,—The recent decision of the California Athletic Commission permitting clubs under jurisdiction of the southern division of the commission to select its own referees for boxing contests over a 30-day trial period, may or may not win the approval of the public.

Opinion among close followers of the game in this section of the state where the experiment is to be tried differs, with a majority favoring the action. Just what the outcome of the ruling will be and whether the commission will adopt it for the entire state at the end of the 30-day period will be interesting to note.

Under the new system a club will submit to the commission within five days of the actual bout a list containing five or six names of men obtainable to officiate at the contest. Providing these men are satisfactory to the commission, the promoter is entitled to select from that approved list his referee for the evening.

The list will be kept secret, and not until a few hours before the fight will the selected man be notified of his choice.

There are, however, a good many loopholes to this arrangement, as can readily be seen. A promoter can, should he wish, inform certain parties of the selection in time sufficient to enable work of an undesirable nature being accomplished.

However, as the fight game anywhere depends pretty much on the type of men behind the wheels, this system will at least serve as an interesting experiment.

BRITISH MOVE TO CRUSH TRIBES

LAHORE, India, Aug. 13. (Censored)—UP—There was every indication tonight that an extensive punitive expedition was under way against insurgent tribesmen on the northwestern frontier of India.

Troops were on the move, passing through Lahore constantly in the last 24 hours.

A royal air force squadron arrived today and moved on toward the frontier later in the day after a brief stop.

This was the promise made by Judge John Lyle today at a conference of police captains.

A list of 26 alleged public enemies was given to each of the captains by the judge, the head man on the list, being Al Capone.

"I'll show you that hoodlums can be thrown in a cell," Judge Lyle said. "These fellows will have a lot of lawyers. If necessary, I'll throw them in jail, too."

The alleged confession, in which Sanhuber told of emerging from his cubby hole retreat to kill the garment maker, was introduced by the defense's motion.

FILM STAR IN ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 13.—UP—Lina Basquette, screen star and formerly premier danseuse for Ziegfeld, attempted to commit suicide early today because she despaired of ever regaining custody of her 4-year-old daughter, Lita Warner.

The actress, widow of the late Sam Warner of Warner Brothers productions, took poison at her home where she was entertaining a few friends.

She was taken to a police hospital, where antidotes were administered. When her condition improved, she was permitted to go to her own residence under the care of her physician.

Loses Child

Miss Basquette told investigating officers that she became despondent when her attempts to have her child returned to her were futile. Young Lita, by an agreement with Miss Basquette was given into custody of relatives of Sam Warner when the former New York dancer decided to remarry.

"I'm sorry I did it," she told police." "It seems awfully silly, of course, but my heart was just breaking because of Lita."

Husband Called

Peverell M. Marley, cameraman and present husband of the actress was advised of Miss Basquettes' act by police. He went to the hospital and after talking to her briefly returned to his home. Miss Basquette and Marley have been separated recently, it was said.

The actress told reporters that one of the reasons for the separation was her belief that the action might aid her in getting back her child.

Uses An Alias

"We parted," she said, "because I hoped that it might help me to get Lita back. I'm not myself without my child. The wor'd somehow seems to be all wrong and I seem to be helpless."

When Miss Basquette first entered the hospital her name was given as Eleanor Copeland. Later her maid Irene Zastro, and Sears gave her correct name in statements to police.

Miss Zastro said the actress left her guests and went into another room. In a few minutes the maid heard a scream and rushed to Miss Basquette's side.

Miss Basquette, the maid said was writhing in agony and rapidly losing consciousness. An ambulance was called at once. The maid said she believed Miss Basquette was in poor spirits because she had not fully recovered from a recent operation for appendicitis.

Miss Basquette first appeared in films in minor roles in 1916 while she was a child. She then went to New York, where she starred in musical comedies. She married Warner and returned to Hollywood and picture work in 1927.

Suicide Awaits Pair If Friend Ever Returns

LIVINGSTON.—Its just an old Japanese custom, but if David Yanoshita even returns to Livingston, his good friends and benefactors, Mr. and Mrs. B. Noda, will be obligated to commit hara kiri.

Yanoshita broke into the room of a 16-year old Japanese girl here recently and was frightened away into the night air by screams of the young woman.

The Japanese gave himself up at local police headquarters on his own accord, and when his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Noda, vouched for his behavior in the future and promised that Yanoshita would nevermore return to Livingston the culprit was allowed to leave.

According to Noda, the old Japanese custom has it that if Yanoshita ever comes back after he and his wife have guaranteed his absence, they will be forced to commit suicide.

"YOUNG PLAN" FOR MEXICO URGED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—UP—Adoption of what would virtually be a "Young plan" for Mexico, under which the southern republic's foreign and internal debts totaling more than $1,000,000,000, would be funded through a single gigantic banking arrangement, is expected to result from studies and negotiations now in progress here and in Mexico City, it was learned today.

This would be preceded by a general financial rehabilitation program to be put into effect by the Mexican government.

Dwight W. Morrow, American ambassador, has been co-operating with ministry of finance officials in this task. State Department officials here also have been studying the problem and while their study has been independently conducted it was thought the department would place its conclusions at the disposal of the American government.

What effect the general debt funding plan would have on the international bankers' agreement, concluded last month, for the funding of $500,000,000 of Mexico's bonded indebtedness, remained a question.

It was suggested, in some quarters, the bankers might oppose adoption of a scheme embracing all of Mexico's debts. It was pointed out that this would eliminate the preferential treatment given their bonds under the recent Lamont-De Oca agreement.

On the other hand, the general scheme doubtless would have the support of Morrow, himself a former Morgan partner, and this might be expected to influence other bankers, although there have been reports that Morrow and the house of Morgan are not in accord on certain aspects of the question.

LOCAL GOLD STAR MOTHER RETURNS

Mrs. Hannah Bevier is home from a pilgrimage to the grave of her son in France. With thousands of other bereaved mothers, who, thru a gesture of kindness of the government were able to make the trip, Mrs. Bevier has returned to her home saddened by memories but more reconciled to the unhappy fate of her son.

Mrs. Bevier has related many interesting items of her journey.

Visiting in the battlefields of France, the Gold Star Mothers saw many of the memories of the war. They saw the Argonne forest which is now only a tangle of underbrush, shell holes and tangled wires.

The cemetery in which her son was buried contained graves of 14,144 American soldiers. They also made a visit to Versailles where the treaty was signed.

Upon her arrival in New York, Mrs. Bevier remained there for a month. Her daughter, Miss Blanch Bevier who is a teacher in the local schools, joined her in the east and together they visited with two of Mrs. Bevier's daughters. En route home stops were made in Chicago and at Grand Canyon.

SEE RICHMOND FIRST!

Two years ago a mud flat with the piles for the Parr-Richmond terminal just being driven. Today a beehive of activity ---the terminal completed, the Filice and Perreli cannery operating with 700 employees; Tenth street extended and paved and a big force at work on the new Ford plant.

Such is the story of the inner harbor, Richmond's new industrial and shipping zone.

Looking backward two years and seeing the developments that have taken place, it should not be difficult to look forward a few years and vision what the ultimate development will be.

Cooperation between many local groups, led by the Chamber of Commerce, has brought about the present situation. There is no sign that we have slowed down in our program of cooperation. We have gone far, and we will go farther.

Go down to the inner harbor and see with your own eyes what is happening there. It proves that Richmond is the "whitespot" of California.

THE WOMAN OF IT

A LOST LADY

SHE was dancing in the moonlight the last time we saw her. Long and slenderly curved and faintly gleaming, she dipped and slipped and glided with that lucent flow of movement which a good dancer spreads like the shimmering curtain of a waterfall over a few square feet of space. Lightly poised, airily unconscious of being watched, she slid from moon radiance to moon shadow and back again, while the soft, salt night breeze blew over her and we threw her a kiss and promise of "tomorrow." Tomorrow came—and she was gone. Probably we shall never see her again, and we loved her, even if she was nothing but a boat.

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Please don't think us hopelessly sentimental and foolishly tragic—but you won't, if you are among the numerous members of our sex who have had such happy days with a boat, or a little car, or a house, that this inanimate construction of wood and metal achieves a living personality with a deep and definite pull on the affections. It's surely "the woman of it" to care in such fashion for certain treasured possessions, to care out of all proportion to their material value, to suffer an aching sense of loss when something happens to them. You can read this feminine instinct between the lines of "lost or stolen" advertisements which carry the wistful phrase, "treasured for association." Many women have felt what we feel, now that a completely conscienceless crook has stolen Gazelle II., the fourteen-foot steel boat in which the Skipper and ourself have put-putted so many miles and hours over Jamaica Bay.

"THE liner, she's a lady, declares Kipling, but no more of a lady than the little boat which so gallantly carried our portable motor. A lady who has seen better days, to be sure, since a northeast storm threw her against a float chain last October and cracked her ribs. Nevertheless, two square feet of metal, welded on her port side amidships, made a new woman of her this summer, and she never rode more lightly and tightly than when the Skipper brought her across the bay to her mooring only a fortnight ago.

Yet would you think that the meanest, pettiest marauder would pick out a patched boat? Perhaps it was too dark for him to see her trepanning—he must have come in the small hours of the morning after the moon had sunk, to the light of which we saw her dancing. Ten hours later, when two of us went down to the yacht club for a long run on a blue-and-gold bay, boat and mooring had been picked up and carried off.

Neither in newspaper work nor out of it are we a "sob sister," but this was once when we cried our eyes out. The Skipper felt as badly as we did—a man loves his boat too—but, being a man, he mourned with curses not loud but deep upon the thief in the night. The only adequate curse which we could think of for him is the Eastern malison quoted by Lawrence Hope:

"May you be tortured living, burned when dead,
Your camels die and virtue leave your wife!"

Also, we now know exactly how the Vigilantes used to feel when they STRUNG UP every horse thief they could catch!

A WOMAN becomes so fond of the thing which has meant both work and play for her. We have worked for Gazelle II—helped to pull her on the float when she needed a massage to remove weed and barnacles; helped to beach and launch her; eased her up to the wharf where gasoline was on sale; anchored her and unanchored on fishing trips. Just this summer we helped to give her what every lady requires now and then, a nice new coat of makeup—dark cherry-red on the rubbing strip, gleaming copper-bronze (to thwart the barnacles) on her dented but sweetly curved steel flanks, dark green inside.

As for the play part, you know what this is if you've ever had happy hours and days in a little boat, speeding so close to tumbling blue water that the spray flies over your bathing suit in the most exhilarating of shower-baths; watching the exquisite colors of sky and water when sunset spreads its gorgeously-hued palate; counting five slender gray mackerel gulls joy-riding on a shingle-raft; exploring odd nooks and channels of a twisting and innumerably-inletted bay; fishing off the wreck of the Princess Anne with the anchor lifted overhead and caught in the eye-ring of a wire rope stay, running through quick water while the air-tanks sounded their sharp, snorting boom and the Gazelle gave an excellent imitation of a bucking bronco.

PERHAPS it was tempting Providence to give her that name. We took it out of Tom Moore—you remember his famous lines:

"I never loved a dear gazelle,
To glad me with its soft black eye,
But when it came to know me well,
And love me, it was sure to die!"

Here, it seemed to us, was a perfect description of the way the portable motor behaved while the Skipper was learning its little bag of tricks. "Sure to die"—indeed, not even to breathe the breath of life—was that motor; hence the two-piece motor boat got her name. But the boat herself always behaved beautifully; she was even, the Skipper said, unusually easy to row on the sad occasions when the motor lost a carburetor or a pin or something (we told you we don't understand its mysterious workings, or even its vocabulary), and we two had to get to port somehow.

To add to the infuriating, ironic wretchedness of having the boat stolen at this particular time, the motor has just been overhauled thoroughly and is running like the well-known charm. It, thank heaven, was not stolen. But it's all dressed up and no place to go; of what use is a motor without a boat?

It's all over, we suppose—the work and the fun and the halcyon days between blue sky and blue water. We can only hope that the second-story worker who carried off our lost lady treats her as she should be treated, with her sturdiness, her sweet seaworthiness. We hope he keeps her reasonably clean and doesn't let her get all smelly with unused bait; that he doesn't bang her against floating logs, when out on his other nefarious dark-night business; that—but what's the use? Any man who would deliberately rob us of our one and only small, much-mended, three-year-old boat, which could mean only a very few dollars to him but which means pure joy to us—any man who would do that—oh, WELL!

Shakespeare almost said it for us—

"Who steals my purse, steals trash . . .
"But he that filches from me my good BOAT
"Robs me of that which not enriches him,
"And makes me poor indeed."

Planning menus for a home where there are young children is a comparatively simple matter when the children eat by themselves or with a governess, but when small children come to the family dinner table they are bound to rebel against their simple fare.

KAREN HOLLIS

Even those little darlings, if there are any such, whose behavior ordinarily conforms to the best Elsie Dinsmore traditions, are going to scorn their spinach, mashed potato and prune pulp when they see their elders eating salami, potato salad and canteloupe a la mode. If a crisis is to be averted, some one ought to make sacrifices, and it shouldn't always be the children.

For the most part the young child's diet should be very simple, consisting of milk, eggs, cereals, fruit, green vegetables and whole wheat bread, with occasional treats in the form of custards and milk sherbets or plain ice cream. Once in a while, however, a few more sophisticated dishes can be introduced if the child begs for them.

One of the dietetic bugaboos that has been put to rout by eminent dietitians is that bananas are not good for children. Now on the advice of experts they are given to children as young as six years. The bananas must, of course, be fully ripened.

With that inclusion in the child's diet, it is now possible to present a salad that will delight children. It should be only an occasional treat, and the portions should be small. This recipe provides two portions.

CHILDREN'S FAVORITE SALAD

1 banana
2 tablespoons peanut butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
4 tablespoons boiled dressing
Lettuce

Peel the fully-ripened banana and cut it in half lengthwise. Place on leaves of lettuce and garnish with tiny balls of peanut butter. Sprinkle with lemon juice and add boiled dressing. Chill slightly and serve.

Modernizing the Home

When Home Furnishing Budgets Are Small

By Alma Zaiss

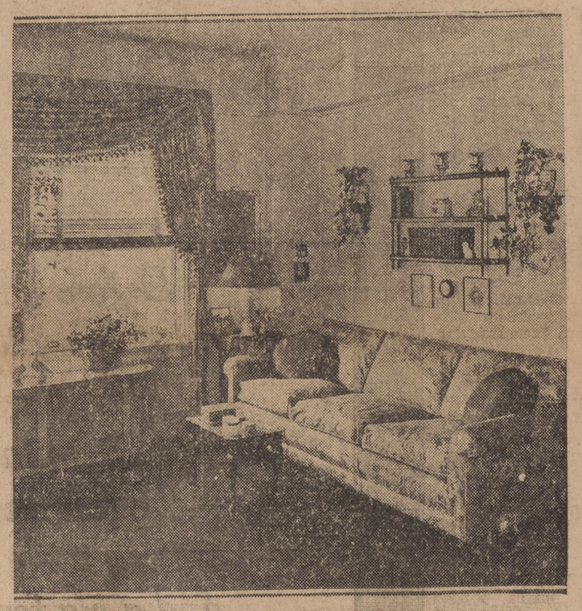
Dear Miss Zaiss:

I am inclosing a slip of diagram of bungalow which I ask your assistance in furnishing First of all, what shall I put in vestibule? You see, I have read your columns in The Evening World, but nothing seems just right for me.

I had planned on using Queen Anne period walnut furniture in master bedroom and dining room. I like walnut furniture best. Would you please plan living room, and is there a way the furniture could be placed so that the settee and fireside chair could be each side of fireplace? I do not like settee directly in front of fireplace; it seems to shut fireplace off from rest of room. And would a Queen Anne secretary be out of place if I had a radio in living room also?

Could I ask you to mark on diagram where you would place each article in vestibule, living room, dining room and both bedrooms? I had planned on trying to use blue and yellow for colors, as they are my favorites. I was hoping I could keep within my budget of $800 for everything, but am afraid I will be unable. If you could not keep within that and do the rooms as nicely as we both would like them, it will be all right.

(MRS.) C. F.



IN A GENERAL WAY THIS SETTING SUGGESTS THE INVITING SOFA CORNER OUTLINED FOR MRS. F.'S ROOM

"Can I Furnish Five Rooms for $800?"

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

IN THE Home Decoration Service some puzzling problems have come for solution, but none, perhaps, has called for more careful planning than this one from Mrs. F. Here, evidently, is a home-maker of good taste and refinement, a woman who appreciates the more gracious aspects of decoration and longs to express them in her own house. Yet for completely furnishing five rooms and a foyer she has a very limited amount to spend, if she expects to achieve the ideals she has suggested.

It is an intriguing problem, peculiarly apropos during annual home-furnishing sales, and we have chosen it for the opportunity it gives to drive home once more the message that there can be beautiful homes for every income. Articles to follow during August will make suggestions for all sorts of budgets. This limited fund, however, is a good one to start with.

In order to cover the whole problem notes must be very brief. We wish it were not necessary to suggest that Mrs. F. change her preference for Queen Anne to something more simple. This period calls for richness, luxurious appointments and the finest quality in fabrics and furniture . . . and we simply cannot have it on our budget of $800 for five rooms. Our living room, you see, cannot cost over $350 or $400; dining room, $200, which leaves a scant $125 for each bedroom. Also as much Queen Anne furniture as Mrs. F. suggests is usually found only in dignified, rather formal homes. . . . And she has a dear little bungalow that calls for a more informal treatment. Therefore, in suggestions made, we have provided for occasional Queen Anne pieces in the living room, but recommend simpler schemes as more suitable for the other schemes.

Just now remarkable values are to be had in the furniture sales, and if we can compromise on the Queen Anne period, Mrs. F. should be able to get good reproductions of colonial and eighteenth century pieces that will make her home most inviting. The foyer is not shown, but there is need there for only a simple chest or console with mirror against its one unbroken wall, and, of course, a small rug.

Although the living room lends itself well to such an arrangement, a love seat or sofa before the fireplace is not desired; so we have indicated a four-foot sofa for the wall space to the left of the single window. Some time later it would be nice to add a smaller love seat with a low back as indicated in dotted lines; this would give the room balance and additional seating.

At various times in the different stores we have seen good bargains in four-foot sofas at $60. Mrs. F. should look for one of these. We have also seen nice small wing chairs at a special price of $27.50, and she should be able to find a good-looking overstuffed chair of medium size at a sale price of $25. Very pleasing open-arm chairs in Martha Washington, modified Queen Anne and Chippendale types have been offered from time to time at $19.50, and a nice side chair or bench for the desk should be available at half price during the sales.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

When the girl swirled off at the end of her number, amid tumultuous plaudits from the uproarious soldiery, Griff noticed that prominent in the applause was Klotz, ordinarily so woodenly undemonstrative. The Sergeant slicked back his hair and spoke imperatively to Dupont, the plump proprietor, who was bustling officiously about. Dupont shrugged objections, then appeared to yield. Though Griff could not hear a word, he knew what this meant.

He did not know was that Marie, for all her French name, had the sophisticated outlook and vocabulary of a Broadway showgirl. When Dupont told her in her dressing room that a live one was waiting outside, Marie agreed to sit with him for the sake of the money he would spend, though her lip curled as she said that "Klotz rolled off her knife." Thus when Dupont led out the seemingly reluctant girl by the wrist, with a grip which she privately enjoined against harsh realism, Griff gritted his teeth, unsuspicious of this coy byplay. As Klotz pulled the girl down into a chair with pawing hands, Griff rose belligerently, despite a caution from the frightened Bert. And when Marie, keeping up her stratagems, burst into tears, Griff strode toward Klotz.

Immediately all the lights in the place went out as the scared Bert pulled the switch. Pandemonium broke loose. In the turmoil and the darkness Griff was able to whisk up Marie in his arms and carry her up the stairs toward the backwaters of the dressing rooms. In her chamber Marie, sensing that he was not the Sergeant she had supposed, promptly slapped him as he set her down and blazingly ordered him out.

"Say," exclaimed Griff, checked but not checkmated, "I heard about you, and I came over here to get acquainted. Ain't you glad to see me?"

"There are a coupla thousand men in your regiment," retorted Marie pointedly, "and I'm glad to see all of 'em on pay day. You all wear the same uniform and you all look alike to me. Now beat it!"

"Atta girl—I like 'em tough!" grinned Griff. "The tougher they are, the quicker they bounce into my lap."

Before he could fulfill his design of gathering her in his arms, the door opened and MacGuire strode darkly in. Griff gaped in surprise. Ignoring him, Mac strode up to Marie, kissed her—and was rewarded with a slap likewise.

"I thought you were in the cooler!" burst from Griff.

"There ain't no cooler big enough to hold me," said Mac, glowering

Marie: He's out! I don' like him at him. "What're you doing in here?" He turned to Marie. "Tell him how we stand."

"I'll tell you how we stand," she bridled. "You're just another mugg in uniform." And to prove her attitude to both she turned airily to Klotz, whose frowning face had suddenly loomed in the doorway, and greeted him winningly, "Hello, Captain, we sorta got parted at the altar, didn't we?"

Klotz was not minded for demonstrative affection at the moment, but was keyed for wrath. Though Mac explained circumstantially that the Colonel himself had released him from his cell, Klotz now ordered him back to the guardhouse—and Griff with him this time. They sallied forth, but no sooner had the Sergeant left Marie alone to change her costume, than Griffith was back in her dressing room.

"I just wanted to tell you," he informed the gasping girl, "that after I get out of the guardhouse, you and me ought to get together for a little party. In the meantime I want you to keep away from Klotz. And there's something else I want to tell you."

"I'm not supposed to talk to non-paying customers," she gibed, but her voice lacked the assurance it held before.

SOCIAL NIGHT OF SCOTS ENJOYED

Under the auspices of the women of the order, the first monthly social evening of the St. Andrew's society of Richmond since the summer vacation period was held in the Richmond clubhouse lase night.

One of the largest crowds ever in attendance at the local society's social nights was present last night and enjoyed a splendid program and banquet prepared by the women.

In the absence of President Peter MacCullum, who is ill, past president W. J. MacDonald presided.

The program, which was enthusiastically received by the large gathering, was as follows: instrumental selections by a violin quartette composed of John Hays, Clayton Evans, Howard Rose and Allan Glendale, accompanied by Mrs. J. Hays; vocal solo, Miss Mary McLaughlin, accompanied by Mrs. J. H. Kinney; reading, Mrs. Zelda Chapin; violin solo, Master John Hays, accompanied by Mrs. Hays; vocal solo, Mrs. Henrietta Sollars, accompanied by Mrs. Kinney, and a reading by Harmon Jatea.

The committee in charge of the affair which was composed of Mrs. Margaret Stuart, Mrs. Billy Brown and Mrs. Robert Small, received many congratulations from the members of the complete success of the evening.

It was announced last night that plans for the combined Scotch picnic, to be held at Alvarado park on Aug. 23 under the auspices of the San Francisco, Oakland and Richmond societies were practically completed.

The picnic is expected to draw a large crowd, and judging from the enthusiasm shown at the meeting last night will be one of the most successful ever held.

Games, sports events, races and dancing will be enjoyed and several prizes have been obtained to be awarded the winners of various evenes.

A feature of the affair will be the bag-pipe and highland dancing contests, participants of each to be in costume.

Archie Glenn, chairman of the Oakland committee for the picnic was present at the meeting last night and announced that much enthusiasm is also being shown among the Oakland members in regards to the picnic.

Plans were also made last night for the concert and dance to be held in the Memorial hall Sept. 13 under the auspices of the Gladstone lodge, Sons of St. George; Alexandra and Unity lodges, daughters of St. George, and the St. Andrew's socieey.

The proceeds from the affair will go to the British Benevolence society.

TROOPS TO BE USED TO STOP GAMBLING

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—UP—Governor Huey P. Long today threatened to place New Orleans and two adjacent parishes under martial law if gambling was not stopped immediately. To back up his threat several detachments of Louisiana National Guards were ordered held in readinesss.

Long said he would hold the troops in readiness until he was convinced city and parish officials had the situation under control.

The parishes concerned were Jefferson and St. Bernardo, both of which are suburbs of New Orleans.

Action of the governor followed orders from Attorney General Percy Saint for more than a score of gambling casinos in the two parishes to shut down.

RECORD FLIERS TO TRY FOR 1000 HRS.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13.—UP— The world's champion endurance fliers, Dale "Red" Jackson and Forrest O'Brine, passed the mark of 553:-41:03 hours set by the Hunter brothers in Chicago, and sailed on through the night, each hour adding cash and glory to their triumphant flight.

In the orange and yellow "Bungalow" monoplane Greater St. Louis 3000 feet above the field, the intrepid fliers at 9:52:30 a. m. rode through the first rainstorm since they went aloft Monday July 21. At that hour they exceeded the old record by 60 minutes and became the new champions.

Wrist watches of the fliers must have been slow, for four minutes after they made the new record, they dipped their ship down to less than 1,000 feet and roared about the field to the delight of a crowd of 2,500.

Their wives rushed from a hangar to wave greetings and took a drenching from the rain. Then the women went back to pots and pans to fix up "an extra good dinner," for their husbands.

"Motor as good now as when it left ground," Jackson messaged down, "don't stay out in the rain until we come down. It may be days and weeks and months. If the weather doesn't get us we will do a thousand."

He meant a thousand hours, a goal they have set for themselves. As it nosed its way back to an altitude varying from 3,500 to 5,000 feet, the monoplane hardly could be seen from the ground because of the clouds. The rain decreased later in the afternoon, however, and became little more than a drizzle.

The 124th refueling contact of the flight was completed before the rain, at 7:24 a. m. It gave the Greater St. Louis enough fuel to keep aloft for twelve hours or more.

At the same time the flyers were given two cantaloupes, cereal, hot coffee, milk rolls and ham and egg sandwiches.

BILLINGS TO BE HEARD BY COURT AT PRISON

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—UP—Members of the California Supreme Court today witnessed another tug-of-war between clashing hypotheses advanced by the "prosecution" and the "defense" in the "re-trial" of Warren K. Billings, ending in a dead heat.

After a day filled, for the most part, with acrimonious cross-examination of Maxwell McNutt, of the Billings' counsel, the hearing on Billings' application for pardon was adjourned, to reconvene after Billings himself has been heard.

Tomorrow, members of the court will journey 130 miles to Folsom prison, where, after lockup time, they will be parties to the strangest of the many strange sessions in the unprecedent proceedings.

To Hear Billings

With the gaunt stone walls of the prison reception room as a background, instead of their own courtroom, the justices will hear Billings attempt to disprove the testimony thus far given against him.

Today's hearing elicited the following significant developments;

1.—McNutt, who defended Billings and Tom Mooney in 1916 and 1917 when they were convicted of the bombing of July 22, 1916, at San Francisco in which ten persons were killed and 40 injured, revealed for the first time that the Mooney-Billings defense has made many efforts to find the real culprits; futher, that he has a conviction of an unnamed person's guilt, bolstered by certain documents.

2.—W. L. Claibourne, attorney now living in Oakland, flatly accused John Crowley, a key witness for the prosecution, of having perjured himself. Crowley, who testified at the Billings trial that he had seen Billings trial corner near the scene of the bombing ten minutes before the blast, was actually under Claithat he had taken his efforts to by garage, Claibourne testified, and could not have had a view of the corner in question.

Claibourne, though he admitted asked ironicaly if Claibourne "was expose Crowley, no further than minor police officers, could not be shaken in his story.

When Associate Justice Preston time his hypotheses and convicon top of Crowley to see that he did not leave the car," he was answered literally in the affirmative. He was seated on the car, Claibourne testified, moving the gears and ordering Crowley, below, where to put the oil and grease.

On Stand

McNutt's stay on the stand consumed three hours, during which tim his hypotheses and convictions were assailed by several justices and by Edward Cunha, assistant district attorney who obtained Mooney's conviction. The gist of McNutt's declaration:

"I don't believe either man had anything to do with the bombing, either dirtctly or indirectly—and I have no illusions about the character of either—for these reasons.

1.—Both were too ignorant to have constructed the type of bomb that was actually used.

2.—The time element was not reconciled by the prosecution.

3.—There was no motive.

Disiussion Held

This last profession led to involved hypothetical discussion with Associate Justice Preson, culminating with McNutt's declaration that he believed Billings guilty of many crimes of less degree, but that he thought murder beyond him.

After Billings' examination which will probably continue through part of Friday, the court will take a week-end recess, with the probability of reconvening eher Tuesday.
